

Statement

I am an easy going person who has a desire to have fun and enjoy life while as much being a part of the rat race. I am quite inspired by the Chinese saying “May you live in interesting times” and have been fortunate to have had an interesting life with diverse experiences.

Although I may have done reasonably well for myself my feet are still firmly grounded and humility is a virtue that I admire the most in people. I don't enjoy being around people who have a strong / dominating ego. I think ego can destroy relationships faster than anything else.

I have the ability to get along with all kinds of people however I tend to have few close friends. I like people who are authentic and I strongly value the relationships that I develop.

I like to stay fit and ensure that I spend time on my fitness which means regular workouts and a healthy diet. I do enjoy travelling and although I am not a regular at adventure sports I have done the usual skydiving / para sailing / zip lining etc.
